

COVID-19 RESPONSE PLAN: UPDATE 25

22 May 2020

Another week under Level 2 and I'm pleased that the discipline regarding our safe work practices has continued for the most part. Earlier in the week the Government announced that a review was underway regarding Level 2 restrictions, and confirmed that a decision would be announced on Monday at 4:00pm.

Although we have had several days of low cases and Level 2 gives us more freedoms, we must remain vigilant during this time. We are not completely out of the woods yet, and avoiding a second wave is paramount – as it's our best chance of getting back to normal, sooner.

Delta continues to operation under its Level 2 safe working protocol pack. This was released in an update on 12 May and should be referred to in the first instance if you have any questions regarding our current work approach.

Once new information is released on Monday, we will make any necessary changes to this pack – keeping in line with the Government's recommendations. Please continue to stay safe and have a great weekend.
